NDO Recruitment was set up by Industry experienced professionals to provide the recruitment industry with a team of consultants offering a service based upon real experience rather than empty hope. We apply over 60 years experience of working in a variety of industries within a wide range of company types to every recruitment search we take on.

This level of insight into the working environment allows us to fully understand the importance of not only education and experience during candidate searches but also to review the cultural fit, personality profile and potential of all candidates we interview prior to putting them forward.

Our team of Recruitment consultants have worked within the Defence, Aerospace, Automotive, Oil & Gas, Power Generation, Electronics, Manufacturing, Off Road and Industrial sectors. Their roles have covered such diversity as R&D, Trials & Systems Test, Project and Programme management, Technical Sales, Marketing, Business Development, Contract Management, Design, Software, Hardware and Facility Management.

It is easy to appreciate that with this knowledge we Know what you need from your next employee. All our consultants have employed staff in their industry roles and fully understand the employment process and requirements. Our consultants have worked at the highest board level within their industrial experience and enjoy recruiting at all levels.
