Engineering Business Expansion

NDO Consultants – Experts in Engineering Business

Rushden, United Kingdom, 16 October 2008

NDO Consultants Ltd have delivered outstanding results in their first complete business year, to celebrate this success and to coincide with the company's expansion they are now launching 2 new dedicated websites to further promote their range of services to the engineering business sector.

The recruitment arm of the business is being expanded with the appointment of Tom Strand as Recruitment Consultant, this appointment is backed up by the launch of www.ndorecruitment.com This new website provides a detailed overview of the unique NDO Consultants Ltd flexible approach to recruitment and their intimate knowledge of engineering requirements, which has been the foundation of their success.

Alongside this expansion the company has also released the first half of its 2009 training programme on its new Training based website www.ndotraining.com As with the recruitment site, this dedicated site goes into much more detail about the training course content and gives a better overview of their onsite and bespoke training services.

NDO Consultants Managing Director, Neill Ovenden says of the changes.. 'We are very excited by these developments, we have had a great first year through some difficult market conditions and Tom's appointment and the new websites reflect our drive to broaden the reach of our message and our customer base. Our primary website www.ndoconsultants.com is also being revised to fall in line with the new design and we have another new starter in February 2009, so our expansion will be ongoing for some time.'

The additional staff and new websites will allow the company to continue providing a high level of customer service whilst also making more people aware of their unique skills in the Test, Measurement, Instrumentation and Engineering fields.
